

Crusher's Out!

Crusher Higgins has served his sentence for beating up all his old teachers, and is to be released from the new prison in Blunt today.

Trouble is, Peaches has been writing to him for months, pretending to be one of her many arch-enemies, Mandy Tripe. In her letters, she's been calling Crusher a whinging snot-gobbler and a scrawny sack of rat droppings.

Crusher is not happy. Right now, Indigo is on the roof of the hospital on Pox St. What's the best way for him to get to Mandy's house on Adenoid Terrace to warn her to get out before Crusher bangs down her door?

Be careful about the route you take! Martial arts expert Su McCloud is waiting at the corner of Woggle Street and Brain Street, keeping an eye out to make sure Indigo won't foil Peaches' plans. Make sure that whatever way you take, you avoid Su!

